

ICT's 2018 Technology Day event a success

Technology Day, which is sponsored by ICT's Student Technology and Planning group, was held in the Corbett Center Aggie Lounge on February 1st. The event featured over 20 tables that showcased various departments and vendors and the technology and technology services they use or provide at NMSU. Over 300 students, faculty, and staff attended the event. Members of the NMSU basketball and football teams, as well as Pistol Pete, were also on hand to greet guests and assist with prize drawings. Housing & Residential Life – Faculty Fellow Luncheon

On Friday, February 2, Faculty Fellows gathered with the Residential Life professional staff for an opportunity to brainstorm ways to serve residential students throughout the spring semester. Faculty Fellows are members of NMSU's esteemed faculty who dedicate some of their time to collaborate with a residential community to participate in events, plan educational and social activities, and spend time with students where they live. During the luncheon, lively discussions led to wonderful ideas for ways to implement activities that are supportive, enjoyable, and informative for students who live on campus. New collaborations formed between faculty and staff partners, and the results will make life on campus even more meaningful for students.

ICT Reminds You to Complete Your Taxes Securely

In an effort to combat the cyber criminals who are after your personal information and tax refunds, NMSU's Chief Information Security Officer, John Roberts, is again reminding everyone about the perils of tax identity theft. Click the following link for helpful tips on identity theft prevention:
